

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

PEARSALL GLEE CLUB PROGRAM.

The first of the exchange lyceum programs between several schools of this district took place Friday night at the Hondo High School Auditorium with the Pearsall Glee Club, Dramatic Club and Orchestra holding the stage. A pleasant and entertaining hour was afforded the listeners by a wide variety of numbers, featuring vocal selections, orchestral numbers and presentations in dramatic art.

The following is the program:

1. "Assembly March" and "Waltz"—Orchestra.
2. Selections by male quartet.
3. One Act Play, "Exchange"—Dramatic Club.
4. "Spring Is Awake" and "The Swan"—by Pearsall Glee Club.
5. One Act Play, "Not Such a Goose"—Dramatic Club.

The directors of the Pearsall group are to be congratulated on the splendid performances of each division. Especially commendable is the orchestra which we understand, has just recently been organized.

The Hondo High School Glee Club and Orchestra and several of the small dancers of Mrs. Armstrong's dancing class will give a similar program Friday evening, February 5, at Pearsall.

In our announcement column elsewhere will be found the announcement of Hon. A. P. Johnson as a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative in the Legislature from the 77th District of Texas, subject to the Democratic primary in July. Mr. Johnson has served for several terms from this district and is being groomed by his colleagues for the Speakership of the House for the next term. If successful, Mr. Johnson will bring to this district an honor never heretofore won by its representative—that of Speaker of the body.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK.

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

THAT one of the most interesting parts of any newspaper is the advertisements. They have absorbing, profitable information for every one.

The way to find values offered by the merchants is to read the advertisements.

Helpful hints for every family can be found in the advertisements. There is no easier way to save money than by reading the advertisements and buying where the best buys are.

Quality merchandise, fair prices and good advertising make a growing business.

A whole lot of pessimists in business are "riding for a fall." It takes optimism to succeed. Ambitious stores advertise.

Honesty, originality and persistency in advertising make a paying business.

You always know what you have to pay when you buy advertised goods.

ONE OF THE WAYS TO CUT DOWN THE COST OF LIVING IS TO BUY FROM THE MERCHANTS WHO ADVERTISE. THEY SELL THE BEST FOR LESS.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED.

Miss Pauline Murray, whose marriage to Mr. Ernest Phillips of San Antonio takes place February 21, was complimented with a charming shower tea Saturday afternoon, from three to five o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Isaac Wilson. Hostesses were Mesdames Isaac Wilson, H. E. Haass, Fletcher Davis, T. C. Barnes and F. H. Schweers.

Receiving in the reception room, which was simply arranged with baskets of peach blossoms, were Mrs. Isaac Wilson, Miss Pauline Murray, Mrs. H. E. Haass and Mrs. E. J. Murray. The bride's book, presided over by Misses Helen Ann Miller and Janet Kimmey, was kept in the library alcove, which was also charmingly decorated with the chosen flower.

Greeting the callers in the gift room, where the lovely presents to the honoree were laid, were Mrs. F. H. Schweers and Mrs. Fletcher Davis. Pink Radiance roses were lovely decorative notes in this room.

The spacious living room adjoining the dining room also carried out the motif of peach blossoms. In the dining room the lace covered table was centered with clusters of peach blossoms, with lighted pink tapers in silver holders on each side. Presiding over the beautiful silver service, Misses Irene Haass and Thelma Wilson poured the tea and coffee. Miss Anne Davis served the Paradise pudding.

During the hours of receiving a delightful program was rendered. Misses Thelma and Mary Ruth Wilson sang a duet, Misses Octavia Davis and Evelyn Barnes each gave vocal solos. Misses Irene Mechler and Mary Ruth Wilson and Mrs. Redolph Rath rendered several piano selections and Miss Dwyce Cameron gave a reading.

About 50 guests called during the afternoon.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

With Baptists, the Holy Bible is the one source of religious knowledge and is final in its authority regarding all matters of faith and practice in religion. No one is authorized to compromise the word of God, nor to change its teaching. All are required to believe and obey its wholesome instructions. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together." Regular attendance upon divine worship is necessary to ones growth in the knowledge of His will. We invite you to worship with us every Sabbath day. Bible school at 10 o'clock, preaching of the Gospel at 11 o'clock. Junior B. Y. P. U. at 6:15, in the evening with preaching at 7 P. M. God's Attitude Towards the World, will be the subject for investigation on next Sunday morning. Better come. You might help your fellow travelers by so doing. And, you might possibly get a crumb for yourself. The world allures, but it is chaffy, giving you no strength nor inspiration, nor yet does it furnish you any helpful task.

At the evening hour, the W. M. S. will put on a pageant, entitled "A Growing Church". It will involve all the young people organizations, and will certainly be highly entertaining and instructive. Better be on hand. You will get a heart full. Bring the children. They too, will like it. May our Father guide us all until the Day dawns, and the struggle is past.

PASTOR.

TO THE PEOPLE OF HONDO.

I wish to thank you one and all, and especially the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce for the kind consideration you gave to my application for re-appointment as night watchman, and to assure you that I shall by a strict attention to my duties as watchman prove to you my appreciation.

Again thanking you, I am,

Yours to serve,

HORNETS DEFEAT SAN ANTONIO SEXTET.

The Hondo Hornets, local girls cagers, defeated Vic's Aces, fast San Antonio sextet, on the home court Saturday night to the tune of 31 to 15. The Hornets played their initial game on a two division court, new method of playing being inaugurated in girls basketball throughout the country. The Hondo sextet had never before played the new way and made a splendid showing by trouncing their opponents who were at home on the two division court.

Better team work and faster playing characterized the work of the Hornets, and the marvelous basket throwing of the forwards ran up a score difficult to overcome. The forwards were in good form, dropping the ball into the basket at almost every toss. The visitors were a fast team but their forwards could not equal the skill of the Hornets, and their weakness showed in their scoring.

The new type of girl's basketball playing in two divisions instead of three offers opportunity for a faster game and less restraint on each player, making a much more interesting game for spectator and player alike. The Hornets have decided to take the two division way of playing with only intermittent practice of the old, three division method.

Line-ups were as follows: Vic's Aces; Forwards, E. Sheen and W. Knappe; jumping forward, L. Meyer, Capt.; guards, J. Hilburn, L. Scott, and D. Davidson. Hondo: Forwards, M. R. Cameron and I. Haass; jumping forward, A. Davis, Capt.; guards, L. Meyer, A. Brucks and L. Shoor. M. Earnest and I. Schweers alternated at guard position.

Officials were Vic Cowart and Miss Josephine Brucks, referees; Scorers, Herbert Lamm; Timer, Jack Bradley.

THE BRIDGETTES.

Bernice Chancey entertained the Bridgettes Saturday afternoon, January 30, 1932, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon King.

After four games of bridge Miss Anna Laura Welhausen was awarded high prize, Charlotte Miller consolation, Gen Brucks and Billy Fusselman high table prizes, and Doris Windrow and Rosena Taylor low table prizes. The prizes were beautiful handkerchiefs.

The hostess served paradise pudding, lady fingers, macaroons and iced tea to the guests: Charlotte Miller, Ada Bell Carter, Anna Laura Welhausen, and members: Gen Brucks, Bernice Speece, Doris Windrow, Rosena Taylor, Mary Emma Finger, Billy Fusselman and the hostess, Bernice Chancey.

BRIDGE PARTY.

Miss Thelma Wilson was hostess to three tables of bridge Saturday night, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson. Decorations of peach blossoms and pink roses formed a lovely setting for the bridge.

High score prize, a blue and silver vanity, was won by Miss Hettie Nester. Miss Evelyn Kimmey was presented a deck of bridge cards for low score.

A delicious repast of sandwiches and hot tea was served to the following: Misses Eleanor Heyen, Evelyn Kimmey, Lillian Schroeder, Charlotte Miller, Dwyce Cameron, Hettie Nester, Lucy Davis, Gladys Fusselman, Margaret Dillon, Gen Brucks, Bernice Chancey, Mary Ruth Wilson, Mrs. Rudolph Rath and the hostess, Miss Thelma Wilson.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

"He that loveth his life shall lose it, and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal. John 2, 25.

Leonardo da Vinci had worked long and hard on a painting of the Last Supper. One day some friends came to view his work of art and were enthusiastic in their praise. Several among them remarked about the beauty of the cup in the picture. Upon hearing this remark, da Vinci took a brush, and, crossing out the cup, said, "I feel that I have failed. I meant that Christ should be foremost." Would we see Jesus, the life and D. Davidson. Hondo: Forwards, M. R. Cameron and I. Haass; jumping forward, A. Davis, Capt.; guards, L. Meyer, A. Brucks and L. Shoor. M. Earnest and I. Schweers alternated at guard position.

During this Lenten Season which begins on Wednesday, February 10, the Suffering, Dying Savior will be foremost in our minds and hearts. It is a time for serious reflection, a time for earnest repentance, a "convenient season" for coming closer to God. It offers the opportunity of deepening our spiritual life, of making sacrifices, of denying ourselves. In this passion of Christ we see sin in all its ugly repulsiveness; here we see the Savior from sin in all His magnetic goodness.

Mid-week services will be held at our church beginning on February 10 and will continue every Wednesday night until Easter. The sermon subjects will be about outstanding characters in the Passion History: Judas, Caiaphas, Peter, Pilate, Herod, Barabbas, Testas and Jesus the Crucified. This biographical series will not fail to interest all and will throw new light upon the outstanding period in universal history. You are welcome to worship with us. These services begin at 7:30 P. M.

Sunday, February 6, there will be English service at 10:30 and Sunday school and Bible Class at 9:15. The Luther League will meet at the church Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. The topic for devotion will be: "Paul, Persecutor, Preacher, Organizer, World Traveler."

MRS. WINDROW HOSTESS.

Mrs. George C. Windrow was hostess to a group of friends Wednesday afternoon with a charming bridge. Table appointments featured a delightful Valentine motif.

After several games of bridge, Mrs. Ed. Connevey was presented high score prize and Mrs. R. L. Jennings received low. Attractive table prizes were awarded Mrs. Earl Lacy, Mrs. W. O. Rothe, Mrs. M. J. Batot, and Mrs. Volney Boon.

A delectable salad course with hot tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Doris Windrow. Humorous comic valentines were plate favors, each valentine cleverly exaggerating human characteristics.

Those present were Mesdames O. H. Miller, Ed. Connevey, T. B. Knopp, J. G. Barry, H. J. Meyer, Jack Lacy, Robert Kollman, Henry Windrow, Volney Boon, R. L. Jennings, Earl Lacy, Will Crow, W. O. Rothe, M. J. Batot, and Misses Della Mae Adamcik and Anne Davis.

IT PAYS.

A young man came into our office this afternoon and was telling us an interesting story of how he was helping his father who has been out of work for five months. This young man graduated in our school about six months ago and the day he finished we placed him in a position which he still holds. Since going to work he has paid off a tuition note of a Hundred Dollars, boarded and clothed himself and sent his father money for he and his mother to live on the past four months. This young man says his training in Byrne College is paying good dividends on his investment and will continue to be of great value to him the balance of his life.

A widowed mother called to our President, Mr. Byrne, as he was walking past her as she sat in her car one evening and said, "See the new car my daughter has bought for me and that is not all her course in Byrne College has meant to us for she has bought furniture for the home and started a nice savings account and she is still holding the position you secured for her when she graduated." This widowed mother was happy and comfortably provided for because she made the sacrifice necessary to send her daughter to Byrne College. It paid—it always pays.

We could give you many many true human interest stories like this if space would permit.

There is more sure profit to be made out of a business education at Byrne College during these hard times than anything else in which you can invest your time and money. Fill in for catalogue and ask for our hard time Club and Co-operative Bonus Plan.

Instead of serving the same type of menu day after day, introduce a little variety in plan, yet have the kinds of food needed for a balanced diet. If you have been accustomed to serving a fruit for dessert and a starchy vegetable with the meat, have a fruit appetizer and a starchy dessert, for a change. For example, cantaloupe for the appetizer, or fruit-cup, and hot gingerbread with or without cream, for dessert.

BOY SCOUTS AND SCOUTERS WILL CELEBRATE 22ND ANNIVERSARY FEBRUARY 7TH TO 13TH.

Boy Scouts and Scout Officials of Southwest Texas will have a part in this great national recognition of our country's greatest spare hour, character building organization for boys.

Crystal City, Del Rio, Montell, Trio, Eagle Pass, and Uvalde have outlined programs that will be of interest to the respective communities:

February 7th, Scout Sunday, Scouts are urged to attend church in a body, if possible, and serve as ushers or in any capacity offered. The pastors are urged to emphasize the 12th Scout Law.

February 8th is Anniversary and School Day, emphasizing safety methods in school and on the streets and highways. At 8 P. M. every Scout recommits himself to the Scout Oath, this being done preferably in troops or patrols, but if you are at home, stand up with Dad, in the presence of the family, and repeat the oath with 800,000 others.

February 9th, Parent Institution Day—programs at the church, school, or civic club, sponsoring the troop. It is thought by many that it is the institution's loss not to have a real troop of Scouts.

February 10th, Wednesday, is International Day, focusing the attention of Scouts on the meaning of world brotherhood and its potential value to world peace.

February 11th is Home Day. Scouts all over the nation will do good turns in the home, and many troops will have father and son hikes, and father and son banquets.

February 12th will be mobilization and citizens day. In many communities a troop of 25 scouts, by being really prepared, can be assembled for an emergency in a very few minutes. The message goes the "Grapevine route" as in the early days.

February 13th, Saturday, outdoor day. The planting of trees is the great big item of the day, in preparation of the Washington Bi-Centennial Celebration of Feb. 22nd, when it is hoped by the officials of the American Tree Association, cooperating with a national commission and all interested organizations, to dedicate and register ten million new trees in our nation. Scouts of Southwest Texas are urged to do their part. Scout Headquarters will be glad to furnish troops or individuals bulletins on tree planting.

SCOUT HEADQUARTERS.

REV. AND MRS. C. P. HASSKARL SURPRISED AND HONORED.

Without a note of warning, Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Hasskarl of Quihi were most agreeably surprised last Saturday night by a large number of church members and friends. The surprise was genuine. While the reverend gentleman and his good wife were quietly enjoying their usual evening readings, a stalwart church member suddenly called on them and invited them to the front gallery. When they got there they were met by a large number of church members and friends who had quietly assembled there. How they all got there without betraying their presence is a mystery. The purpose of their unexpected presence was soon betrayed by the boxes, bundles and bags in their hands and under their arms. It was a genuine good, old-fashioned pounding—the kind that would make any country preacher smile and feel grateful. The well filled boxes and bags were all deposited in the parsonage and made the kitchen look very much like a small army commissary. The pastor and wife thanked all most cordially and sincerely for the kind consideration, respect and honor shown them. From the church lawn and parsonage all repaired to the parish hall where talks and selections by the church choir for awhile entertained all. While the older people indulged in conversation and sociability the younger generation adjourned to the church lawn and enjoyed lawn sports and games. In the meantime the good ladies prepared and served a splendid cake luncheon with hot coffee, which was greatly enjoyed by all and for which they merit much credit. Finally all remembered that it was late and time to retire. All evidently enjoyed the occasion very much, especially Rev. and Mrs. Hasskarl.

ORDER OF THE ALHAMBRA.

last October, unveiled on a little plaza at Castrovilla a memorial to one of Texas' pioneers and builders. Besides the town's founding on September 3, 1844, the granite shaft marks the establishment, nine days later, of the first Catholic church between San Antonio and the Rio Grande. That thoughtful, generous act set an example which civic and patriotic societies in other communities would do well to follow. Every city or town that has a history should preserve it, both for the instruction and inspiration of its own citizens and as a contribution to the larger annals of State and Nation.

Now—to show its appreciation of the San Antonio organization's gift—the Castro Colony Historical Association plans the improvement and beautification of September Square, on which the Castro memorial stands. It will provide curbing of native rock, build walks and plant flowers, shrubs and trees. Thus may beauty add its tribute to that inscribed on the monumental granite.

A stranger asked for a ticket to Buffalo, handing in a $20 bill. "Change at Albany," the clerk said.

"None of that now," replied the stranger, "O! want me change right here."

FOR THE BEEKEEPER.

M. E. Ketcham of Clinton, Arkansas, thinks that we beemen should present young men who are courting girls some honey to give their sweethearts. You furnish the honey and if she does not talk sweet to him he need not pay for the honey. Of course, there might be a family buying honey in the near future, if the scheme works. Or perhaps, Mrs. Annie L. De Berger may have some followers also, who might get the idea that the sweet personality is the beekeeper, and the sweet young man would not gain much with his pound of honey.

Now is the time to look through our bees in the warm Southwest, Texas. If any are not heavy with honey, make them so by putting a shallow super full of comb honey on top of their brood nest, or if you have not the honey in shallow frames put some in 3-pound or 5-pound pails with a few holes punched into the lids with a pin or very thin nail, then set from 2 to 4 or 6 upside down on the brood frames and put on a shallow super (empty) around said cans and on top of all the hive, cover and weight or nail same down, and you will run a good chance that your bees will winter over O. K.

Finally the breezes from the icy North have come to Medina County, Texas, and this 24th day of November the bees have remained inside of their small homes, all lined with wax, and, I hope, filled with honey for their winter rest.

That National Honey week did not greatly augment our sales of honey, yet we sold a few cans, and after this is gone and if we are still alive, we will be ready to refill those cans.

The South Louisiana Bee Association claims to make no stress on light color of their product but on flavor, fancy grade, uniformity and standardization, long shelf life, and replacement service when needed. They sell their product in glass, and being very dark, its life upon grocery shelves is, of course, long. Yet these people claim they now sell their best white honey in New Orleans.

I have just read where a beekeeper put empty fruit jars on top of the bee hives for the bees to fill with honey. But up to date I could not learn that the experiment was a howling success. This breed of beekeepers are harmless, though, for they do not glut the market with honey.

With the amount of soaking our soils had up to date we may confidently hope for a heavy crop of early white honey from the Husjilla and the Catlaw brush early next spring. The mosquito has fooled us so often in the past that we hardly figure same as a honey producer any longer.

A Wisconsin man who has twenty hives of bees, relates that he lives 7 miles from the nearest burned-over forest land, where a weed called fireweed covers the land and although seven miles distant produces for him 2,100 pounds of honey from the 20 colonies. We do not have any burned-over forests here, but we have the same land with its horsetail and it is fine now, and if the Spring and Summer showers do not fail us we may also get some honey. A certain Mr. Atchley claimed some years ago having gotten over 700 pounds honey from a single colony of bees of this hot horsemint honey. You Yankees cannot shake a stick at Texas.

Winter has pounced down upon us again, but, owing to the general depression and consequent poor sale of honey, we have reason to believe that sufficient honey has been left on the bees, by their owner, so they do not have to starve and will come out 100 per cent strong next Spring.

A new bulletin entitled "Honey Cookery" by Constance Leeb, was published recently by the Agricultural

COOKIES.

1 cup honey
1 cup light brown sugar
2 eggs well beaten
3 tablespoonsful of vinegar
A level teaspoonful soda
Pinch salt
Flour to stiffen, about 3 cups.
Mix at night and bake in the morning.

SANATORIUM GEMS.

2 cups honey
2 eggs
2 cups sweet milk
1-4 teaspoonful salt
2 cups entire wheat flour
1/2 cup mashed red raspberries
Mix eggs, milk, salt and flour, beat very thoroughly, stand it on hot stove in gem pans to brown the bottom for about five minutes; then bake in a good oven for forty minutes. Heat the honey and raspberries to a boil and eat on the hot buttered gems.

al Extension Division of the North Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo, N. D. The bulletin contains a discussion of honey as a food, together with a number of recipes having honey as one of the ingredients.

On account of the poor honey crop in Germany, importers are agitating a lowering of the tariff on imported honey from the present rate of seven cents per pound to 4.3 per pound as it was formerly. The beemen of Germany are opposing the adoption of the change though. For us American beemen the change would perhaps mean the sale of some honey.

If the beemen is a little Jack-of-all-trades, these rainy days are just an invitation to try the luck at bee-hive making, also live covers and bottoms. The latter are best made of cement concrete. Hive and hive parts can be bought but they also can be made cheaply during the winter months, and be all ready to use in the Spring.

In connection with the advice of cotton experts to plow an every third row of cotton, and the dairy people to make a udder out of every tenth cow, it is now time to advise the beeman to eat up every second pound of honey in order to get a paying price for the balance he has. Of course, the shooting of every honey peddler who ruined the honey market by giving away Southwest Texas honey in Oklahoma and in North Texas would help some, but the method would be rather rough and not Christian-like at all.

GASOLINE TAX RATES SOAR AS PRICE IS CUT IN HALF

ALTHOUGH in a decade gasoline prices have been halved, motorists are unable to take full advantage of the bargain because state gasoline taxes increase the cost nearly one-third.

Records of the American Petroleum Institute show that in 1920 prices in 50 representative cities, at least one in each state, averaged 19.4¢ per gallon. State taxes averaged .09¢ per gallon, an average assessment of 1% on the retail price. At the beginning of 1932 prices averaged only 12¢, but tax rates averaged 4¢, making the cost to motorists 17¢ per gallon and the average assessment 30.8%, or nearly one-third of the retail price.

In 1920 state tax rates were only 1¢ and 2¢ per gallon. Now they range from 2¢ to 7¢. Counties and communities impose additional taxes, the pyramided levies running as high as 9.4¢. Although two-thirds of the states now impose taxes of 4¢ or more, increases in their rates have been proposed. A federal gasoline tax of at least 1¢ per gallon has been mentioned.

Gasoline tax revenues have soared from around $4,000,000 in 1920 to an estimated $525,000,000 in 1931, the counties and communities garnering additional millions. The tax was levied to build good roads, but revenue is due to schools, text books, fish and game, oyster farms, state buildings and projects, unemployment and governmental expenses, salaries, etc.

Revenues while enormous, have kept pace with tax rates. Higher rates, invoking the diminishing returns, have increased the filing of claims for refunds, many of them fraudulent and in some states above 40% of income. Rates above 4¢ per gallon have made tax evasion sufficiently lucrative to support operations of racketeers who gasoline bootlegging, bribery, gery, intimidation and, among means, sale of inferior and harmful fuels and lubricants, as their profits gasoline tax rates estimated as high as $1,000,000.

Information reaching the Institute from investigators in more than 15 states indicates that taxes are reduced to a uniform near 3¢, uniform tax has passed and fully enforced, and expenditure of revenue is confined to highways, the "fastest growth in history" may become greatest tax scandal in history.

has been shown to have made the most rapid growth. Seeds were planted December 5, 1930, and a good percentage is large enough to bud at present. Other citrange varieties that have made excellent growth in this test are Morton, Cunningham, Savage and Rustic. Rustic, usually considered the best variety at other stations, has been almost a failure at the Winter Garden Station.

Citranges are the result of crosses between the sweet orange and the hedge orange (Citrus trifoliata). They have a great deal of cold resistance and for this reason are given a trial as root-stocks for plantings in the Winter Garden. Citrange fruits are not generally as good as some varieties, such as Morton, but make excellent substitutes.

WOMAN'S TROUBLE.

Thought She Would Die

Donna, Texas— "I was taken down with woman's trouble, and thought I would die," says Mrs. S. F. Moore, Box 732. "I suffered death. The doctor said there was nothing for me but an operation. I had then been five weeks, and could not get without help. I began to take Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' also the Loton Tablets, and in two weeks people were saying they had never seen anyone mend so fast. Now a well woman, do all my work, and feel good all the time." Druggists

CORN PLANTERS TO START NEXT WEEK.

J. H. Spivey, one of our green corn shippers told a News reporter one day this week, that he and others who ship with him will start planters next week, and run until about six hundred acres roasting ear corn is planted and then wait a few days more in planting. In this way it will not all come on at the same time; and may miss the possibility of a cold snap later.

Sheriff Chas. J. Schuehle was here Tuesday from Hondo and said Joe Goslin, who lost his mind here last week, got worse after going to Hondo, and had to be taken to the State Hospital, in spite of the fact that they reported no room. Unless Goslin gets quieter it is thought he cannot live many days. Goslin was in the hospital once.

NATALIA PAYS 136 POLLS THIS YEAR.

The crusade among the farmers to have poll taxes paid at Natalia seems to have borne fruit. According to Collector F. G. Muenink, the first round got 136, with probably a few more to come in later. Natalia voting precinct includes the old coal mines, the Humble Station and Chicon Lake territory. This, however, is more than double the 1931 poll tax payments.

ENEMIES OF PROSPERITY.

There has never been a time when it was more important to keep governmental expense down to reasonable levels than now.

Businesses and individuals are striving to make both ends meet. Authorities, public and private, are working on plans to stimulate industrial activity and thus provide employment for those who are out of work. And rising taxes are one of the principle barriers in the way of success of such plans.

Extravagance and waste on the part of officials are enemies of prosperity and result from "government in business" in competition with its private citizens and taxpayers.—Selected.

GIRLS WIN THIRD GAME.

Overcoming stiff opposition the Hondo Hornets piled up a score of 33 points Monday night, while the Sabinal sextet followed close at their heels with a score of 26 points, to win the second victory over Sabinal. The game was scheduled to be played at Sabinal, but as theirs is an outdoor court, the rain made it impossible. The Sabinal girls were kind enough to return to Hondo, where they received a second trouncing at the hands of the Hornets. The game was very close, the teams being evenly matched, and the scores continued to tie until the last quarter when the Hondo forwards with a spurt of good goading passed up the visitors. The three division court was used on the request of the Sabinal sextet.

The line-ups are as follows: Sabinal: Forwards, Davenport and Butler; centers, Donaghe and Gibson; guards, McGinnis and Alexander. Butler went in as substitute for side center. Hondo: Forwards, Haas and Cameron; centers, Davis and Meyer; guards, Shoor and Brucks. Schweers went in as substitute at guard position.

Officials were as follows: Referee, Irwin Gooding and Miss Perry Chamberlain; scorer, Miss Sue Heatly and Miss Andrus; Timer, Dr. John H. Meyer.

COLONIAL COVERINGS.

Saturday and Sunday brings to the Colonial Theatre screen the saga of the great West, "Fighting Caravans." The story is of the long trek westward to the Pacific coast amid the dangers and thrills of the time. There are scores of splendid actors in "Fighting Caravans."

Here comes the world's most famous shocker. Just a word of warning: If you have a weak heart and cannot stand excitement or gruesomeness we advise you not to see this production. Take our word for it. It will thrill, it will shock, it may even horrify you. But if your nerves can stand electrifying drama, you will find it in this next picture, "Frankenstein," which opens on Monday. James Whale directed it with a cast including Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles, Boris Karloff, Edward Van Sloan, Dwight Frye and Frederick Kerr. It is the boldest thing he or any other director ever attempted. It is all about a man who made a monster. Bones and bits of human bodies from graveyards and sawdust trees went into the making of this eight-foot caricature of humanity. But alas, he had the brain of a criminal and the fiendish fury of twenty maniacs. Don't fail to see what happened when this terrific monster escaped to prey upon terrified men and women.

Tallulah Bankhead, star of "Tarnished Lady" and "My Sin," in both of which talking features she scored individual triumphs far beyond the plot opportunities, has a role minutely fitted to her enigmatic, excitement craving self in "The Cheat," a modernized Paramount edition of Hector Turnbull's famous box-office leader of silent days. With Irving Pichel, gifted character artist, in the branding role, there is no reason to believe that this feature, to be headlined at the Colonial Theatre Thursday and Friday, will not prove as popular as its non-voice predecessor. The story tells of an alluring woman intrigued by the love-making of a mystic man of oriental culture. In spite of the fact that she is happy and satisfied with her husband, she permits this flirtation and a gambling debt to draw her into the power of the intruder. The later sequences reveal how she is branded and the dramatic suspense which follows when she brings herself and husband to a notorious position in court.

STORING GARDEN CROPS.

By L. A. Hawkins

Agricultural Extension Department International Harvester Company. Only those who have stored vegetables can appreciate the saving resulting from growing and storing this part of the family's winter food. This saving is an important thing for the gardener to think about and plan for. Don't let vegetables depend upon the various factors of storage. If used in the fresh state, the sooner vegetables are used after harvesting the better the quality. Many vegetables deteriorate rapidly as soon as they reach maturity and cannot be stored. Some plants like cabbages and rutabagas, stand cold, frosty weather, while others like potatoes, melons and beans must be harvested before being frosted.

Small quantities of such root crops as beets, carrots, parsnips, potatoes, rutabagas, salsify and turnips should be stored in a root cellar or dark basement buried in moist sand, either in piles or boxes. When the vegetables are gathered the tops should be cut off. Larger quantities can be stored in bulk in a root cellar or outdoor pit. There should be a root cellar on farms where there is no good basement for storage. Proper ventilation is essential.

Storing in pits will vary according to the climate. Choose a well drained spot and make an excavation, three or four feet wide and six inches deep. Cover the pile with a foot or two of straw, depending upon the climate. As the weather gets colder put on a layer of soil, four or five inches thick. In real cold weather a mulch of manure or more straw and soil may be needed. Provide ventilation to check decay. Leave the straw exposed a little at the top or insert a ventilating flue that will serve. Put a piece of screen under the flue to keep out rodents. Keep out rain and snow and provide some kind of stuffing in the flue when the weather gets too cold. When vegetables are needed from the pit, cut a small hole in one side, remove a few days' supply and cover again to prevent too much cold entering.

Cabbage requires different storing. If a few heads are to be stored for eight or ten weeks, a good basement or cool cellar will do. In this case remove the stems and outer leaves and place the heads in as low a temperature as possible without freezing, to prevent them from starting to grow. Outdoor storing is better. Dig a trench in a well drained place, six inches deep, wide enough to hold three heads of cabbage and as long as needed to store the number desired. Pull the plant, roots and all, and stand them head down, three wide in the trench. Remove no leaves. On top of these put two more rows with heads between the roots of the bottom ones. Place them roots up and intact. Put on a layer of straw and cover with soil. It is not necessary to cover enough to completely prevent freezing. Dig into one end of the pit and take out cabbage as needed, replacing the covering.

Celery can be stored in a cool dark cellar by digging up the plants with the roots and setting them close together in soil on the cellar bottom. Keep the soil moist but do not wet the tops. It can be stored in trenches in the same way. Dig a tunnel 15 inches wide and as deep as the celery is tall. Take up the plants and set them close together in the trench, watering the soil about the roots but keeping the tops dry. Shade the tops as weather gets colder, provide protection from freezing by covering with straw and soil or manure. Ventilation is necessary to prevent rot.

Onions need a cool, fairly dry, even temperature for best storage. Squash and pumpkins need warm, dry storage conditions, like the floor of the furnace room or warm basement of the house. Do not bruise them by rough handling before storing.

THE WORKSHOP ON THE FARM.

By V. M. Couch.

A repair shop on the farm may be large or small, depending upon how much there is to do, and the kind of a farmer who operates it. Many farmers never have any use for a work or repair shop for the reason that they seldom, if ever, build or repair anything. However, there should be a shop on every farm, equipped according to the requirements of the work to be done. My observation has been that there are more and better equipped work shops found on small and medium sized farms than on large farms.

The large farm needs a shop and tools sufficient in size and variety to repair the common farm machinery. Year after year, farmers are buying and using new and more expensive machinery, and the upkeep of this machinery if hired done, amounts to considerable during a year, but if done on the farm as far as possible, quite a cash outlay is saved. And to do this it is necessary that a shop be a part of the farm equipment where tools and facilities for repairing shall be always at hand.

A shop should be of such size that a tractor or harvester may be run into it and worked on when the weather is cold or stormy. A forge should be included in the outfit, a supply of bolts and iron for braces, also tools for wood work. A strong vise is required and a thread cutter for bolts and pipe saves many trips to town for the farmer who have more or less repair work on pumps. A drill can not be dispensed with if much is accomplished in the repair line, but with a forge, drill and thread cutter most of the common repairs of machinery can be done on the farm. And a shop of this kind has a tendency to interest and educate the farm boy.

On a stormy day the car can be overhauled and cleaned, in fact, many things can be done about the car that does not require the services of an automobile mechanic and at quite a saving in expense as compared to what the cost would be if taken to a car repair shop. There is no work that the farmer hires done that is more expensive than repairing machinery, and it seems that the farmer must save some of the expense attending the repair of this machinery. The average farmer with any mechanical ability at all can not dispense with at least a small repair shop. Though he may be unhandy and awkward in doing repair work, with experience comes confidence and he will find that soon he can accomplish considerable in the way of building and repairing things on the farm, thereby saving many dollars during the year. The outlay need not be great at first, if only the needed tools and supplies are purchased. Others can be added later for a more completely equipped shop.

JOE TSCHIRHART HURT.

A bullet that ricocheted from the ground as two officers attempted to stop seven suspects Tuesday afternoon, sent Joe L. Tschirhart, 51, of 1305 Burlinson Street to the hospital with a bullet wound in his right leg.

The officers, Homer Allen and Homer Long, of the motorcycle squad had gone to the yards of the Southern Pacific railroad in answer to a report that suspicious looking characters were loitering in that vicinity. They came upon seven men near the 1500 block of Sherman Street. The men started to run, and the officers called to them to halt.

As the men failed to obey, both officers drew their guns and fired into the ground. Three of the men stopped but the others continued their flight. Tschirhart, who was walking along Burlinson Street nearly 300 yards away, fell to the ground wounded.—San Antonio Light.

Better methods of soil building and intensive soil cultivation have diminished the need for clearing up new lands for crop production. This favors the growing of timber as a crop on the less fertile or more broken parts of the farm, and makes it a part of the regular farm program.

THERE'S NO MONEY IN A POOR COTTON CROP.

The big slump in the price of cotton places many farmers of Texas in a situation which requires careful planning of their farming operations in order to make their farms pay. The large carry-over of 9,000,000 bales from 1930, together with the tremendous cotton crop produced in 1931, during a world wide depression, caused the price to fall away below the cost of production.

To overcome the low price, it is necessary that cotton be produced as efficiently as possible on a greatly reduced acreage. It should be made a surplus or cash crop instead of a credit crop by first making provision for the growing of sufficient food for the family, and plenty of feed for the livestock on the farm.

The farmer who has been planting all of his land to cotton, and depended upon the income from this crop to buy his living, or the landlord or banker who required that this be done, has no conception of the proper place for cotton in the farming system. At the present time, the cotton acreage reduction law requires that not over thirty per cent of the cultivated area in 1931 be planted in cotton in 1932.

Hundreds of crop records show that it requires a yield of more than 100 pounds of lint per acre to pay for the rent, seed, equipment, and feed for teams, without allowing the farmer wages for himself, his family, and teams. From this, it can readily be seen that it is necessary to plant the cotton only on productive land. Unless farmers make good yields per acre, they cannot hope to make anything from their cotton crop at prevailing prices. It would be better to utilize the less productive land for the growing of the necessary feed crops, and for temporary and permanent pastures. Legumes, such as cowpeas, Soy beans, sweet clover, etc., should be planted to provide hay and grazing and for enriching the soil.

In order to produce efficiently, it is necessary (1) To plant the crop on fertile and well drained soils that warm up early in the spring. (2) To plant on terraced land, if there is any water run-off. (3) To fertilize with manure or a high grade commercial fertilizer, wherever fertilizers have been found to pay. (4) To plant a sufficient amount of pure bred seed per acre, to insure a good stand. (5) To give sufficient shallow summer cultivation, to keep down all weeds and grass, as they not only rob the plants of the necessary moisture, but also rob them of a good deal of available plant food. (6) To be prepared to fight insect pests, particularly grass-hoppers and leaf worms.

An important step in the production of cotton is to grow it in a rotation with other crops, to maintain the soil fertility and to keep down diseases. On the sandy land of East Texas, a legume crop should always be included in the rotation. In the blackland belt, a rotation of cotton, corn, and oats, proved to be the most profitable over a period of ten years at the Experiment Station at Temple. In this ten-year test, cotton produced an average of 276 pounds of lint per acre in the rotation as compared with 142 pounds per acre when grown year after year on the same piece of land. The amount of root-rot was also much less in the rotation than where cotton was grown continuously. Over a large part of West Texas, a good rotation consists of cotton, grain sorghum and small grains as the principal crops.

Some high grade commercial fertilizer for cotton are those having a 1-2-1 ratio of plant food such as 4-8-4, 6-12-6, 10-20-10, etc. In case cottonseed meal is used, it should be mixed in the proportion of 200 pounds of cottonseed meal, 100 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate, and 30 pounds of muriate of potash, or 100 pounds of cottonseed meal, 100 pounds of nitrate of soda, or 75 pounds of sulphate of ammonia, 200 pounds superphosphate, and 40 pounds of muriate potash. These mixtures have approximately a 1-2-1 ratio of plant food.

Hints for the Household

Address all

Letters to

For the February Hostess there are numerous occasions for those lovely home gatherings that delight the hearts of young folks and their elders as well, and the article of the same name, "For the February Hostess", offers two wonderful ideas for the hostess. Mrs. Frazier gives preference to Valentine's Day with its many opportunities for surprisingly beautiful motifs, with a description of unusual and pretty plans for the "home artist" to try. Mrs. Frazier's second suggestion is a Washington's Birthday Party which, I think, would be very appropriate for the celebration of the Washington Bi-Centennial as well as a chance for interesting variations of the patriotic party. Why not celebrate the Bi-Centennial with such a party? Let's be patriotic!

From the hostess' affairs let us come to solid, everyday problems of the household mistress. Three timely suggestions are offered in these columns; for quilting, which most ladies make into a party affair; for keeping the children from tracking the home with mud; and for removing rust. Try the first at your next quilting party and pass the suggestion on to your friends as you would a favorite quilt pattern. We must admit that in this part of Texas few of us have seen an ice skate outside of an artificial ice palace, so we will have to pass that suggestion on to our northern friends. But onions we have with us always. We shall, of course, try this method of removing rust. So why not you?

We need recipes for dishes to warm those hungry school children, especially for those who have to take a cold lunch for their noon meals and need the hot meal for supper. Send yours in and receive a new subscription or renewal to this magazine. Thanks and goodbye until next month.

FOR THE FEBRUARY HOSTESS.

By Juliette Frazier

St. Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday both come in for a share of the hostess' attention this month, and make it easy to give an interesting touch to Hospitality's table. There are so many effective decorations suggestive of Cupid and his pranks or patriotism's manifestation that every home artist will wish to avail herself of the opportunity to entertain at least on one of these two occasions.

A charming table for St. Valentine luncheon may be made in semblance of one of the old-fashioned valentines which delighted our hearts, made of paper lace, cupids, and roses. Hanging from the chandelier may be a bisque cupid swinging amid strings of red paper roses, and at each cover may be a prim little "nosegay" with a crisp paper set in a slim vase.

For the centerpiece of the table use a large heart made of cardboard and red paper. The heart should be about nine inches in width and ten inches in length, cut from heavy cardboard. Make a cardboard band about three inches wide, and paste it by means of gummed tape, around the edges of the heart. Then neatly cover the top of the heart with red crepe paper, allowing it to lap over the edges, and paste it securely.

Cover a large arrow cut from cardboard with gold paper, and paste it across the top of the heart.

Make two large roses of red crepe paper, and paste them in the center of the heart. Gather a strip of red crepe paper about three and one-fourth inches wide, and paste it around the cardboard band of the heart. Narrow red ribbons, which are fastened beneath the roses, run from this centerpiece to each plate and are tied to small red hearts cut from cardboard, and bearing the guest's name inscribed in gold.

The refreshments should be dainty and in keeping with the occasion. Chicken salad garnished with tiny hearts cut from red pepper, thin bread-and-butter sandwiches, olives, salted almonds, heart-shaped cookies covered with red icing, ice cream, coffee served with whipped cream, need very little preparation and help to make the table very attractive.

For a Washington's Birthday party the rooms may be effectively decorated with artificial cherry blossoms. These can be made by fastening little pink paper blossoms and darker pink buds on branches cut from some shrub tree. The ceiling of the reception room may be strung with garlands and festoons of red, white and blue crepe paper. If the affair takes place in the evening, a few red and blue light globes scattered among the regular lighting fixtures will enhance the attractiveness of the room.

Use a heavy white cloth on the dining-room table, and in the center arrange a wreath of artificial cherry blossoms. In the center of this wreath stand two Colonial dolls, back to back; one dressed like George Washington, and the other like Martha Washington. Tie several (Continued on page 14)

Waiting For Something.

There are entirely too many people sitting around, Micawber-like just waiting for something to turn up. When told that "prosperity is just around the corner," they lack the energy even to take a peep at it. If prosperity wants to find them, she prosperly wants to hunt them up. There may have been a time when opportunity knocked at least once at every person's door, but in these days one has to knock repeatedly at opportunity's door, to get any response. The dame is still as ready to greet visitors as ever, but is letting them do the calling. She has too many admirers to be forced to go out into the highways and byways and compel people to come in and sup with her. The people who wait for prosperity to return to them may find it only by getting out and trying to overtake it. There never was a better time for constructive activities than right now; there never was a worse time for loafing around. Get busy, stop croaking, be happy.

Reconstruction Program.

I am not astute enough to tell just how the National two billion dollar reconstruction program is going to help anybody but the banks, the railroads, the creditors, people with money in banks, and to some extent those who owe debts they can't pay. The man without a business or a job is going to have to hustle as hard as ever if he gets any of those billions. To expect the Government to throw money into one's lap is unreasonable; to expect it to create business in some miraculous way is nonsensical. Better business comes as the result of better individual judgment and effort. Of course, the Government can relieve some of the burdens of business as a whole, but individual business has to depend on individual energy. The best reconstruction program for most of us is to reconstruct our own affairs to meet the changed conditions.

Farm Life Changes.

Farmers are learning that farming and farm life can not succeed along the old lines. Cooperation is now as essential as raising crops. A few years ago it was difficult to get farmers to gather to study farm problems, and seldom could they be induced to agree to any fixed policy of cooperation. Now, they readily unite to outline policies, receive instructions from farm demonstrators, subscribe to acreage agreements, adopt marketing plans, and attend to all the details of crop management and marketing. They exchange experiences in reducing expenses of living and study seriously how to effect savings. Good roads and automobiles make it easier for them to get together and increase the spirit of friendliness so essential to cooperation. The isolation of farm life has heretofore done much to retard farm improvement. Farmers no longer can live to themselves and succeed.

"Live-At-Home Year."

Farmers and suburban residents with sufficient land for orchards and gardens have, in large numbers, learned in the past year the advantages of conserving food in a way to make living much less expensive. They have also learned that the saving thus effected contributes to both health and purse. While millions of containers have been filled with food the past year, the practice of canning has not become as general as it should. The example furnished by the more thrifty canners of farm produce is certain to result in a vast increase in canning this year, and it is hoped that before long every farmer will take pride in having always at hand enough canned goods, and of sufficient variety over a period of at least a year. When that time comes, farming will be recognized as the most independent of all vocations.

Helping Themselves.

McCulloch county commissioners decided that the county could not afford to re-employ a county farm agent and demonstrator. The farmers, to the number of 300, who have profited by the services of these agents, decided they could not afford to do without such aid. They subscribed liberally to a fund to pay their salaries and appointed committees to canvass the county for additional funds. That kind of a spirit is sure to bring success. These farmers are determined to make their farming pay.

Want Law Repealed.
The people who clamored so strongly for farm regulation by law are now—at least some of them—trying just as hard to get the law repealed, or declared unconstitutional, that restricts cotton planting. Other states have failed to pass similar measures, and Texas is left holding the bag. The only people who have profited have been the legislators—in the extent of their $10.00 a day salaries—and perquisites—and a few politicians who secured much-desired publicity. The cotton planting law is dead. Either the court will declare it void, it will be repealed or it will not be enforced through indifference.

Lockhart Farmers Unite.

Caldwell has always been noted as a "corn and cotton county." The farmers of the county have been holding meetings and talking things over. They have seen that their neighbors in Bastrop, Dewitt and other counties have prospered by diversifying crops. They are subscribing to agreements to plant enough tomatoes to employ some one to instruct them in planting, cultivating and marketing the crop. This will result in additional diversification of crops and also in the canning of farm products. Caldwell county is going to get out of the corn and cotton rut without being compelled by law.

East Texas Syrup.

Over in Houston county cane syrup is being grown extensively. There is no better sweet than East Texas cane syrup, and the cane can be grown easily. Heretofore there has not been much market for the syrup because of insufficient cooperation. There has also been lack of uniformity in the grade, as every farmer was his own judge as to standards. About 80 per cent of the cane growers of Houston county have formed an organization for marketing syrup on a quality basis. They will demand a high standard of quality, rigid inspection, a uniform label and strict guarantees. There is no reason why East Texas syrup may not become as famous as Rio Grande Valley grapefruit.

Publicity For Products.

Fruit growers in the Rio Grande Valley are signing agreements to leave parts of their crops on the trees as long as possible so that visitors may be impressed with the citrus possibilities of the section. A good idea that might be adopted as to other crops in other parts of the State. The hotels, cafes and other eating places should also feature in their menus local products and offer them to guests at attractive prices. In a trip through the Valley last year I did not find Valley fruits featured at a single place. No special effort was made by the hotels to advertise the fine grapefruit and oranges of the section, and when they were ordered the prices were as high as on a railroad dining car.

Valley hotels should almost force their patrons to try Valley fruits; East Texas hostellers should place East Texas cane syrup before every guest; the Winter Garden and Pecos sections should display huge bowls of strawberries before their guests; the Panhandle should require its hotels to serve whole wheat breakfast foods. Why have a good thing unless it is exploited? The more publicity a good thing gets the better for it.

Grady's Prosperity Recipe.

The Llano News appropriately reprints Henry W. Grady's famous prosperity recipe, and it is good enough to be read again here. If adopted generally, hard times on the farm would disappear. Here it is: "When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures, and is disturbed by no creditors and enslaved by no debts, shall sit among his teeming gardens and orchards and vineyards and dairies and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus and selling it in his own time, in his own chosen market and not at a master's bidding, getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt but does not restore his freedom—then shall be breaking the fullness of our day."

KEEPING A SECRET.

From The Owl.

How many times have we been told something and were strictly forbidden to spread the secret? Did we obey the command? Maybe one time out of ten we kept the secret, but the other nine times we let the words go to listening ears. After a word is once said, it cannot be withdrawn; the strongest of men cannot kill it.

There is a burdensome feeling within us just as soon as we are told something that is not to be spread. We begin to think about what was told us. There is some good friend of ours, and we feel that this friend shares everything in common with us. We are confident that there is no danger in telling him, and finally our conscience allows us to tell the words.

But my! the feeling that comes to us then. We begin to think after we have spoken. However, we comfort ourselves, feeling there is no danger; for someone else has taken a risk by telling us. So why can't we take the same risk?

The fault of most people is that they do not think ahead, but jump right into fire with the rest. Where do words wander? Finally everyone in the neighborhood knows the secret and more. Words multiply like bacteria. They fly through the air as kites, but cannot be so easily withdrawn. The best thing to do is not

It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Mrs. Greene: Well, the lunch is ready. I hope the Deacon will come before long. Entertaining such stylish company is not so pleasant, but when all the other women invite the Deacon over for lunch, I have to do the same. Remember, Nora, don't move your plate, whatever you do. There's a big hole—

Nora: But, mama, I have to take my music lesson and I can't stay.

Mrs. Greene: My goodness! that's right. Then Bobby has to sit there. Oh, dear! Well, I must fix up a bit. You call Bobby and give him a few instructions on his behavior. (Exit)

Nora: (goes to door) Bobby! Oh, Bobby, come here.

Bobby: (Enters) What do you want? (Looks at table.) Wheel!

Nora: That's the style. Now—

Bobby: S'funny style. Who's coming?

Nora: The Deacon, and—

Bobby: Say, do I have to eat with that fathead?

Nora: Bobby Greene! Such an outburst. Now I want you to listen. Mama said for you not to move—

A New Seasoner for Steak

By Jane Rogers

THE next time you want to serve a particularly delicious steak, try using a small amount of sugar as one of the seasoners. Without sweetening, the sugar seals the juices behind a crisp, brown crust, and thus preserves every bit of the flavor. Select a thick steak and rub into it a mixture of one teaspoon each of salt and sugar and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Brush a hot skillet or broiler with fat and place the steak to cook. Turn now and then until done to your taste. Serve on a hot platter, dotting butter over the meat before serving.

A Secret of Vegetable Cookery

By FREDERIC FRANCOIS GUILLOT
Chef, Hotel Astor, New York City

IN wise seasoning often lies the sole difference between a flat and tasteless vegetable dish, and one that presents an irresistible appeal to the most fastidious appetite. Salt and pepper have their important parts to play, but in addition there is a third vegetable seasoner that deserves to stand on an equal footing.

This third fundamental seasoner is sugar, used not as a sweetener, but to point up the original flavor which the vegetable possessed when in the garden, but which it always loses to a greater or less degree before reaching the table. The proper proportions are an equal amount of sugar and salt for most of the green vegetables.

Chef Guillot

Carrots Dauphine — Cook until tender one quart thinly sliced carrots in boiling water to which has been added one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon sugar. Chop fine two medium-size onions and saute in three tablespoons butter until a light brown. Stir in four tablespoons flour. Cook until completely blended and smooth. Add gradually two cups meat stock; then one-fourth teaspoon paprika, dash of cayenne and one teaspoon lemon juice. Bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Drain carrots, re-heat if necessary. Arrange on strips of hot, buttered toast in serving dish. Pour over them the sauce, and serve very hot.

Squash Turrene — Mash three pints steamed squash and add one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, one-fourth teaspoon ginger, three tablespoons butter, and three tablespoons thick cream. Beat until very light. Pile lightly on hot serving dish, re-heat if squash has cooled, and serve.

Fritters Give Distinctive Touch

By FREDERIC FRANCOIS GUILLOT
Chef, Hotel Astor, New York City

FRUIT fritters, served with powdered sugar or a fruit sauce, always add a distinctive touch to the main course. Apples, bananas, oranges, peaches make delicious lightness and note of sweetness contrast to the other, heavier foods with which they are eaten.

Syrup drained from canned fruit can be used as the basis of an excellent fitter sauce. Cook syrup from the can for about five minutes with one tablespoon sugar and a little lemon juice. Thicken with one teaspoon cornstarch, cool slightly and serve with the fritters.

Apple Fritters—Peel the apples and slice them, removing seeds and core centers. Sift together one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one cup flour. Combine with one-half cup milk and one well-beaten egg. Flavor to taste with non-alcoholic brandy flavoring. Melt four tablespoons butter in frying pan. Put apple slices one at a time into cup together with two tablespoons of the batter. Four contents of cup into frying pan and fry to a rich brown. Drain fritters on brown paper.

Orange Fritters—For orange fritters, peel oranges, separate into sections, remove membranes and seeds without breaking up sections, and drain before placing in the batter. Other fruit fritters can be prepared in the same manner, always draining off the superfluous juice before combining with the batter. For banana fritters, a lemon sauce is especially good. To one cup of lemon juice add three-fourths cup sugar and an inch-long stick of cinnamon, and cook slowly for about ten minutes.

1932-YEAR OF CHALLENGE.

Every year is, of course, twelve months of challenge; but not in a long while has one held so much work to be done, so much vital good to be accomplished, so many upward steps to be taken, as does 1932. It is distinctly a year of superb challenge and of fully as superb opportunities for America and for the world.

That we can, with all these gages flung down to our alertness and our energy and our intelligence and our foresight, give ourselves over to the fatalistic and gloomy apathy so frequently voiced recently is unthinkable. After all, the lot of humanity is largely what men make it. We dislike to recognize it. We are still a, rather responsibility-dodging race preferring to place the onus for our condition on our Government, on other nations, on the Supreme Power—on anything and everything except where it belongs: on ourselves. It is humbling to admit that, since we are the shapers of the civilizations in which we live, breakdowns in the social and economic scheme must be due to our lack of wisdom; and we resent being humbled.

The new year of 1932 brings us another opportunity to face this significant fact, and to turn with all our will and intelligence to remedy those things which we have found lacking and to build to new heights those things which we have found good. So we face the tests and opportunities before us this year in problems of government, of economy, of education, of our social structure—of building up, in short, a culture and a civilization that shall rank among the most glorious in history. It is our challenge, and to the extent that we face this fact will we succeed.—From Holland's.

THE SUCCESSFUL MAN.

From The Owl.
The old belief that a successful man is born, not made, is often repeated. This phrase seems to be supported by an almost universal use by those men who apply it to their own case as an alibi for their failure. In many people this belief in the power of heredity over the destiny of man has produced a fatalism equal to that of the Mohammedans. In their understanding it would seem that we have no power over our own career. But this is merely a fetish of the Old World left over in our modern civilization.

All that a man needs is will power and the energy to do; but he finds himself subconsciously hampered by this unreasonable belief. Such a one might take as an example men who have worked their way to the pinnacle from obscurity. Roosevelt began life handicapped; but by devotion to a strenuous life he became a successful man. All great men who began life with some failing have conquered it. Their spirit represents the idea of Democracy, that everyone has the same chance to succeed, regardless of what his condition in life may be.

Thus it has been proved time after time and by different men in various vicissitudes, that the supposedly insurmountable obstacles crumble before the man with a will. Hence we may conclude that no matter how great the handicap, it is no hindrance to our chance of being a successful man.—Pep.
